

One way to see comments on your submissions:

There are several ways to view feedback on your submissions. The following procedure steps you through a quick and easy way.

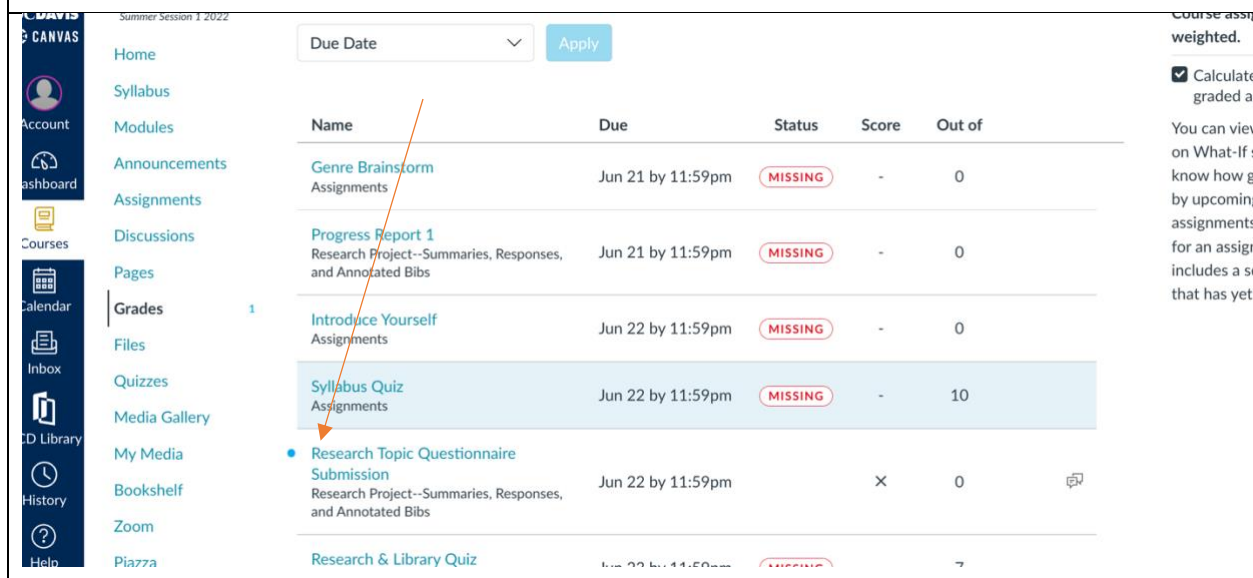

If you have an unread response to a submission, you should see a notification next to Grades. Here, the dot is informing the reader that there is one response to a submission.

1. Click “Grades” to access it.

The screenshot shows the Canvas LMS interface. On the left sidebar, the 'Grades' link is highlighted with a blue dot and a notification icon. An orange arrow points from the notification icon to the 'Grades' link. The main content area shows a list of announcements for 'UWP 101Y 002-002 SS1 2022'. The announcements include 'Office Hours Today 12:00 - 3:00: completion of assignments to move on; official prompt for LA Article', 'Class at 9:00 this morning and 2:00 this afternoon', and 'Canvas Site Published (sort of)'.

2. Click the link next to the dot. Here, it is Research Topic Questionnaire Submission.

The next screen will show my general comment. Here, it is “TS, Where is your submission?” (Don’t worry, TS stands for Test Student, my own account.) If there were a submission, one I had made comments on, you would see it in the Submission Details” box.

Grade: incomplete

Research Topic Questionnaire Submission

No Submission

If the Test Student had submitted an assignment, it would have been displayed here. Also, there would have been a “View Feedback” link here.

TS,
Where is your submission?
